

Suggestion for a micro toolbox on a repositionable tablet that allows one to have two pens selected (eg a fineliner and a highlighter), together with a specific eraser setting. On the right is a draggable handle to reposition the toolbar.

The version 2 software seems pretty good, but switching between tools has become more cumbersome. Quite often, when marking up a PDF, I have to switch between the highlighter and a pen tool (normally the fineliner or marker tool) or the eraser. Having these conveniently arranged on a micro toolbox would speed up changing between the tools.

Crucially this sort of toolbox would make better use of the margins. The main toolbox cuts out the left margin and adds an annoying X in the top right, which really limits the space in which to make margin comments.

Perhaps gestures could be used to navigate the toolbox too.